

"If your enemy is hungry, feed him; if he is thirsty, give him something to drink. In doing this, you will heap burning coals on his head." Do not be overcome by evil, but overcome evil with good.

Romans 12:20-21

DEVOTION:

Overcome Evil with Good

Paul describes three kinds of love in Romans 12:9-21: Our Love for God, our love for other believers, and our love for non-believers.

Obviously, Christians should have no enemies. Sometimes, however, it happens that people do not want to live in peace with us, in spite of efforts from our side to bring peace. Even then, we should not withdraw our helping hands from them

One of the basic aspects of Christianity toward people who become our enemies is to help them.

George Macdonald writes that a person with hate in his or her heart will find it hard to be just to a neighbor or a friend. If it is hard to love our friends, what will our enemies experience when they meet us? There should be only one answer: Love, compassion and hospitality.
